Air Raid Instructions

In as much as there has een considerable confusion in the minds of the public regarding the shutting off of gas during an air raid alarm, a statement has been issued from the Office of Civilian Defense in an attempt to clear up this question. Their statement is as fol-

"The American Gas Association recommends that you make no attempt to shut off the main gas valve. Simply turn off the stove burners that are lit but not the pilot light. If the house is badly damaged the main gas valve should be shut off. Once the main valve is turned off, for any reason, do not turn it on again yourself. Call for a trained man. Your local gas company is working out further detailed directions with your local defense council. Watch for these instructions, then follow them."

We pledge ourselves to this cause

A Statement by The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

We make this pledge publicly to our national government and to the people of the United States:

That we will cooperate unhesitatingly in every effort of authorized government agencies to prevent unwarranted rises in prices of foods.

That we will continue our efforts to reduce the spread between prices paid to the grower and prices charged to the consumers.

That to this end we will continue to do everything in our power to assist the farmers and growers of America in the orderly marketing of their products at the fairest possible prices to them.

That we will make every effort to more our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers because hoarding. whether by wholesalers, retailers, or consumers, will cause higher prices.

That we will endeavor to continue to pay our employees the highest wages and to give them the best working conditions in the grocery business generally.

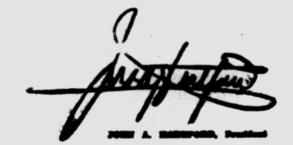

That we will make every effort to continue to sell food at retail at the lowest gross margin of profit in the history of the retail grocery business.

Today we are providing food for our customers at me lowest gross profit rate in the history of the retail grocery business. This means that we have achieved efficiencies in the distribution of food never before attained. More of your food dollar goes for food and less for overhead expenses than ever before. No other great retail business in the United States in any field is operated with such a low cost of distribution.

No one in the loca business can control the wholesale price of food. Only the government of the United States has power to do this, and for the protection of our people this power in the government is now a necessary power.

Today, with the nation at war, we believe that no private interest has any rights in conflict with the general public interest.

The armed forces of the United States are today receiving more and better food than ever before in our national history. It is equally important that all of our people working and living behind the lines, men, women and children, shall be better fed and better nourished than ever before in our national history.

"Target for Tonight", the companion feature, was filmed in England, with the cooperation of the Royal Air Force. It is a reenactment of an actual air raid on Germany including the planning and preliminary work incidental to the raid. All those who appear in the picture are the very persons who do the jobs they enact, officers as well as fliers and mechanics. It is extremely interesting and stirring as well.

The Broadway stage hit "Skylark" has been turned into one of the merriest movie romances of the season, starring Claudette Colbert, Ray Milland and Brian Aherne. "Skylark" which opens Wednesday, is a gay comedy of the matrimonial errors of a modern young couple and a handsome, footloose bachelor. There are any number of comic situations with Ray Milland, Brian Aherne, Binnie Barnes, Walter Abel, Mona Barrie, Ernest Cossart and Grant Mitchell all coming in for their share of honors.

"Glamour Boy" the companion film, features Jackie Cooper and Bonita Granville.

THE NEW YEAR

At the beginning of 1941, to which we say goodbye this week, President Roosevelt said we must prepare to make the sacrifices demanded by the national emergency and that we looked forward to a world founded on four essential freedoms - freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want, and freedom from fear.

Today, after a year so eventful that even a brief summary of its happenings would stretch to columns, a year which closes with the visit of Prime Minister Churchill to this country and with the treacherous bombing of Manila by the Japanesetoday we find ourselves in battle array fighting to defend not only our "four freedoms" but a portion of our country's territory.

What can we expect of the New Year? In the beginning, at the most, sacrifice, hardship and sorrow; at the least, the hardest work we have ever done with all our energies and our time devoted to defense.

In the end, it may "ring in the true", for the year's work will bear its fruit. All-out defense will bring all-out victory, if not in 1942, then in some other year.

Then, our freedoms will be more greatly loved because of the sacrifices we have made for them. They will be unshaken; in fact, more firmly based than before they were attacked.

We can, without irony, wish each other a "Happy New Year". It will be a new sort of happiness that the year brings, the happiness that comes to each in serving to the utmost of his ability in the greatest of all causes—the cause of freedom.

WHAT CAN I DO?

"What can I do?" is the question many of us are asking.

Boys in thousands have answered the question by enlisting in army, navy and marines. Older men have enrolled in police and fire auxiliaries and in the State Guard. Men and women have volunteered as air raid wardens and for motor transports. Women are knitting and sewing for the Red Cross and British War Relief.

Some there are who have talents fitted to special service, if only they knew what it was. Many there are who do not know where to go to offer their services.

For these, the Robbins Library is preparing answers. At the suggestion of the American Library Association, libraries are becoming war information centers. The Robbins Library staff are collecting clippings in a notebook, "What to Do for Defense". This already contains lists of the various services and of places where information about them may be secured. The Association hopes to arrange for the libraries to receive essential government pamphlets.

A telephone call or a visit to the library will probably result in the solution of defense puzzles and the setting of willing feet on the path to service.

VENGEANCE

The action of Japan in bombing Manila after it had been declared an open city has brought a cry for revenge. This is natural and vengeance will without doubt be wreaked on Japan. But not, we hope, on the women and children of Tokyo.

The bombing action of the English has been logical. With few exceptions, they have dropped their bombs on military objectives and so have used them most effectively. Occasionally, an Englishman —or woman—has expressed the wish that German women and children might suffer what the English had suffered; that their beautiful and historic buildings might, like those of London, meet destruction, but for the most part the wisdom of the government policy has been recognized.

The bombing of England's civil population by the Germans did not break their morale, nor did the bombing of the Chinese by the Japanese. On the contrary, it strengthened it. The same was true of Spain—witness the story of the little girl in Madrid who thumbed her nose at the sky and sang, "Who's afraid of the big, bad wolf?"

We may believe that the Japanese are made of different stuff—treachery and cowardice are often mates—but in a tyranny there is little advantage in breaking the morale of the civilian population. Their master's whips will drive the slaves on.

Vengeance is ineffective as a motive. It clouds the vision when we need to see most clearly and to concentrate most closely on our objective. Better it is to follow England's example and drop our bombs on railroads and factories.

American Legion Conducts Oratorical Contest

The American Legion will again conduct an oratorical contest for high school students throughout the country.

this country. With this end in view, the contest will center around the constitution of the United States.

Age and Eligibiliy Any student, not a graduate, attending the 9th, 10th, 11th, and 1942, is eligible to enter this oratorical contest.

Elimination Contests

The contest shall be conducted on a basis of successive eliminations: first by schools, second by districts and thirds by zones. The four zone winners from Massachusetts will compete for state honors and prizes at a final contest to be held at Faneuil Hall in Boston, during the week

High School authorities are authorized to select, in any manner desirable, a contestant to represent their respective high schools, and shall certify to the Oratorical Commission, not later than February 6, 1942, the name and address of the contestant selected. Only contestants certified by their school authorities will be permitted to enter further competition.

(Middlesex District winners County) must be selected not later than March 7, 1942.

The prepared orations must be the original efforts of each contestant and must not require more than twelve minutes for delivery. the Constitution of the United

Rules of the contest, references, methods of judging, and other information may be obtained from the printed pamphlet published by the American Legion, Department of the local American Legion Post.

Prizes and Awards The contest is financed entirely by the American Legion. Prizes are generally awarded in local, county, and district elimina-

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Premier Joseph Stalin reach an agreement—"the necessity for the utter defeat of Hitlerite Germany". . . . 'and adoption of measures to render completely impossible any repetition of German aggression in the future."

Walter Duranty (in the New York Times) says the U.S.S.R. is not only a bear but an elephant—"it neither forgives nor forgets". Russia remembers the sudden treacherous onslaught on her fleet at Port Arthur—the loss of Korea and Manchuria he predicts war between Russia and Japan, inevitable.

After a talk with Secretary Hull, the French Ambassador predicts the return of St. Pierre and Miquelon (recently occupied by Free French forces) to the Vichy government.

The Dutch and the United States report the sinking of 26 Japanese troop and supply ships since December 6—more than one a day.

Disregarding the "open city" status of Manila so declared by the United States, Japan continues its assault upon the defenseless city. Trusting Uncle

The President promises "postitive assistance". In addition to our own resources, Mr. Roosevelt dedicates those of the British empire, the Netherlands East Indies and China to "the utter and complete defeat of the Japanese war lords." He gives his solemn pledge that the Philippine "independence will be established and protected."

George H. Earle, the United States minister to Bulgaria, with the assistance of that government, flees to Istanbul, Turkey. He reports the assumption of personal command of the army by Hitler "sickened the German people and soldiers alike" and that "monotonous dreariness prevails throughout Germany and among her satellites so that it is impossible to distinguish the conqueror from the conquered."

We predict the speech of Prime Minister Churchill to the United States Congress will go down in history among the immortals. "It foreshadowed not only a new collaboration for war but a comradeship in peace", says David Laurence.

Representatives from all free nations conferring in Washington plan an all-out to get Hitler.

For the first time in history the Canadian Senate and House of Commons install microphones that the world may hear Churchill's speaking from Ottawa.

Attorney General Biddle orders all Japanese, German and Italian aliens on the West Coast to turn in all short-wave radio sets and cameras. Of a total of 5,000,000 aliens in the United States, but 3,000 have been arrested as dangerous—why are we so

The War Department finally decides that promotions henceforth will be made on the basis of merit rather than on the peacetime system of length of service.

If Japan succeeds in taking the Philippines and Singapore she controls 94 per cent of the world's rubber and 75 per cent of all the tin. Meanwhile we hear Brazil has rubber trees. The National Chemurgic Council reports a rubber-bearing dandelion known as kok-sagyz, now grows almost exclusively in Russia, could be cultivated widely in the United States and adapted to mass latex production to relieve the wartime shortage of crude rubber.

Says President James Conant of Harvard: "If more guns and planes are required at Manila and Singapore, we should be willing to strip the defenses of nonmilitary objectives in San Francisco, Boston and New York. Far better that we in our cities 'take it' than deprive men at the fighting front of what they need. Our Government long ago should have risen to this point of faith and clear perception. It is now far too late to provide with what they need the men now fighting at Manila—but it is not too late to abandon once for all a safe-deposit notion of the use of our military and naval resources. The way to lose the war in the Pacific is to continue it along the lines already begun."

Churchill concludes that to harp on the mistakes of the past—in the present, jeopardizes the future.

Belligerent manpower and resources tabulated in the New York Times:

The American Congress listens to Churchill. "The volleys of cheers and salvoes of hand-clapping on Capitol Hill" impress the British House of Commons who express approval with a sedate "hear, hear."

In all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, January 4, on the subject: "God."

The Golden Text will be: "To the only Wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever" (Jude 1:25). Bible selections will include the following passages from Zechariah 14:6,7: "And it shall come to pass in that day, that the light shall not be clear, nor dark: but it shall be one day which shall be known to the Lord, not day, nor night: but it shall come to pass, that at evening time it shall be light."

One of the passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, included in the Lesson-Sermon, reads as follows: "The objects of time and sense disappear in the illumination of spiritual understanding, and Mind measures time according to the good that is unfolded. This unfolding is God's day, and 'there shall be no night there'" (p. 584).

"THANK YOU -from all of

"Just before Christmas, we asked you to help us serve emergency needs by curtailing the exchange of Christmas greetings over longdistance telephone lines. It was imperative that these lines be kept available for messages vital to the nation's safety.

"You responded as we knew you would - realizing that personal interests must be subordinated to the common good.

"We are sorry that this restriction was necessary and truly grateful for you co-operation. Thank you. It helped a lot. We'll try. in turn, to give you the finest service possible un der existing conditions in the coming year."
